General News

Did you know James Bond was half Swiss??

Well this is the kind of discovery we just did with a special exhibition put together by the Espace Horloger of the Vallée de Joux retracing the many links between 007 and watchmaking.

Vincent Jaton, Director of this watchmaking exhibiting space, explains us the concept behind this voyage into James Bond territory with many of original watches that were featured into the most prolific cinema franchise of all time.

And the good news is that the closing date of this exhibition has been pushed back to the 24th of September 2017 and if you are in the Vallée de Joux region, we clearly invite you to go and visit this very entertaining and fun exhibition.

This video report was shot at the Espace Horloger of the Vallée de Joux:
