A new-generation watchmaking space.

Espace horloger gets a facelift

The Espace horloger in the Vallée de Joux (EHV) has re-opened after less than a year of renovations. This “new generation” museum was given a new lease on life to become a modular environment with an international vocation integrated with the region and canton, with a brand-new presentation of watchmaking, its history and its trades using innovative interactive, educational media. On the first floor, visitors embark upon a journey of discovery of horology and its skills by being immersed in a watchmaker’s environment.
